

Something they don't teach you much about in school.

Death happens to everyone. How do people face it? College student Steve Sawyer was told he had only a short time to live. His first reaction was denial, then utter rage. But Steve found hope, even to where he was no longer afraid to die.

What happened? Steve learned how he could be fully forgiven and spend eternity with "the greatest love in the universe" (Steve's way of describing God). "For God so loved the world that he gave his one and only Son, that whoever believes in him shall not perish but have eternal life."* In his moment of need, Steve said a simple prayer to God, asking God for that kind of relationship with him. And "from that second on," Steve said, "my life took on a whole new perspective."

In his last months alive, Steve traveled to hundreds of college campuses sharing with thousands of students how they too could live with hope, no matter what life throws at them. Read Steve's message, "Living with Hope" at www.EveryStudent.com.
